The 2020 Election Season Approaches

As election season ramps up around the Inland Northwest and across the country, Spokane Public Radio is working to provide you with all the latest in candidate interviews, debates, and more.

You can hear segments of our interviews during Morning Edition and All Things Considered on both KPBX and KSFC, and on our website. Just click on the “Regional News” tab and you’ll find “Election 2020” with the latest articles and podcasts.

We’re running state legislative candidates in July, including the people running in three races for Washington state House of Representatives, in the Fourth and Sixth Districts. SPR is working on dialing in a few debates on Washington statewide candidate races from the League of Women Voters, but there is not an official schedule yet.

We will continue to provide our listeners with as much fact-based information as possible on all the upcoming elections this year. Stay tuned!
