FROM ALAN

ALAN CHARTOCK

The Capitol Connection by Alan S. Chartock

We received an interesting letter at WAMC Public Radio the other day. The very good letter writer, who is obviously feeling the same frustration that many other New Yorkers are experiencing, said that when it came to playing Governor Andrew Cuomo's daily press conferences, usually around 11:00 in the morning and also playing President Donald Trump's press conferences at around noon, we ought to continue with Cuomo until he is done since he is so much more sensible than the president. The point, he wrote, was that Cuomo gets credit for presenting the facts while the president bloviates and offers a lot of misinformation and insults. Both men answer questions but Trump answers in such a way to infuriate many of us. Just take the recent question posed by a reporter who, in so many words, asked the president what kind of solace he could give all those people who were suffering through the present corona emergency. The president, always at war with the press, said the question was "nasty." Unbelievable.

It is clear that Cuomo is a study in contrast with Trump and he knows it. Unfortunately, New York is desperately in need of federal resources and we have certainly seen that Trump has not been shy about depriving New York, his former home, of things that it desperately needs. Cuomo has been on the phone with the president and is careful to put a good face on those conversations. He really has no choice; there is just too much at stake. Trump, however, has another game plan. He clearly believes that by attacking and taking nasty cracks at the governor, he excites his base. He sees that as the path to re-election. So how does Cuomo fight back?

He does it by doing such a good job in his press outings that the president looks pretty bad by comparison. Trump knows what Cuomo is doing and there is little he can do but take shots at the New York governor. It's really traditional school yard bullying. He has the resources that Cuomo needs. On the other hand, Cuomo's press conferences are so brilliant that there is nothing Trump can do unless you see his striking out at Cuomo as effective.

Our public radio station is committed to letting people hear for themselves what both men are saying. We do our best to fit in both press conferences in the midst of probably the worst pandemic this country has ever seen. My view is that the people served by our station are not stupid. They know what's what. In a democracy, people have to hear it for themselves. Those who think that a public radio station should engage in censorship undermine the basic tenets of democracy. That word, from the Latin, means, "from the people."

I had a very productive conversation with our letter writer who admitted that he wrote out of a sense of frustration. After all, the president is the president and whether we like what he says or not, he should be heard.

National Public Radio has been annoying us by cutting in incessantly and doing "analysis" of the president's words and then cutting him off before he is through, apparently to assure the continuity of their other programs. I wrote them a letter and told them to cut it out. Usually when I take them to task and send copies to the heads of all the other public stations, the silence is deafening. This time, an awful lot of other station managers publicly echoed my sentiments.

Look, I am no fan of this president. I truly believe he presents a clear and present danger to this democracy. But, hey, we have to do our jobs. We have to allow the people to hear and judge for themselves. If we do otherwise, we risk doing what Trump is always doing.

PROGRAM NOTES

TINA RENICK

It is a strange time in the country as the coronavirus pandemic slows everyday life to a halt. But not all is bad. As we take to social media for interaction and entertainment, we're seeing a new wave of positivity and selflessness. Restaurants are providing free meals and people from all nations are joining in on the couch choir craze. As we lean on each other for support, many are hoping this will be a cultural change to last.

What's coming up in April...

To keep you informed and up-to-date, WAMC will continue to offer live White House briefings and announcements from New York Governor Andrew Cuomo as they unfold. We will also continue providing special coverage of the global coronavirus crisis with The National Conversation with All Things Considered airing Monday through Friday at 9 p.m. Tune in each day to WAMC to hear news and updates on the COVID-19 pandemic.

While live performances are canceled at the Met due to health risks, Saturday matinee broadcasts from the Metropolitan Opera will continue with memorable, pre-recorded performances from the Met archives beginning at 1 p.m.

This month on Person Place Thing, on April 3 host Randy Cohen sits down with Paula Scher, one of the most acclaimed graphic designers in the world and the recipient of hundreds of industry honors and awards including: the National Design Award for Communication Design, the AIGA medal and the Chrysler Award for Innovation in Design. Scher has been a principal in the New York office of the distinguished international design consultancy Pentagram since 1991.

A. Eugene Kohn, a founding partner and chairman of Kohn Pedersen Fox, one of the world's top architecture firms, has also been recognized with many prestigious awards including: The National Building Museum Chairman's Award, The Skyscraper Museum Award, The Soane Foundation Honors, and the Alumni Award of Merit by the University of Pennsylvania—the highest university-wide award presented to alumni. Cohen connects with Kohn April 17. Person Place Thing airs Friday nights at 10:30 p.m.

On The Academic Minute, we'll feature takeover weeks from Cornell College, the University of Richmond and Mercer University. Topics to be discussed include the search for love, the debate over religious symbols on public lands and how reading during hard times can help you keep your humanity. Other exciting research to listen for in April includes how to better share the road when driving or riding, how predictive data can help college students and also the unexpected benefits of school re-zoning. Tune in each weekday at 7:30 a.m. and 3:56 p.m. on WAMC or anytime at AcademicMinute.org.

Coming up at The Linda, WAMC's Performing Arts Studio - since the health of our community is extremely important to us we are canceling/postponing events until further notice. We will do our best to reschedule these events for a future date. Please visit thelinda.org for more details and updates.

Be sure to subscribe to the WAMC News Podcast. We post new episodes twice a week, featuring our most interesting stories from across the Northeast, in-depth interviews with newsmakers, and other special segments. If you love Midday Magazine and Northeast Report but can't always listen on air, the WAMC News Podcast is a perfect way to catch up! <https://wamcpodcasts.org/wamc-news-podcast/>

WORLD CAFE

WAMC HD2 - Weekdays, 10pm-Midnight

Hosted by Jian Ghomeshi, covering pop culture and high arts alike with forays into the most provocative and compelling cultural trends.

UNDERWRITING SUPPORT COMES FROM

MELISSA KEES

It's no secret we rely on the support from our loyal listeners and generous underwriters to keep the station alive. WAMC wouldn't be the same without them.

By becoming an underwriter, you become part of the WAMC community. It doesn't matter if your organization is a small not-for-profit, financial institution, college/university, performing arts venue, home improvement company, health care provider or something else entirely – if you support the station, you're part of the family.

During this difficult time, we find comfort in knowing that the WAMC community supports one another. We see it time and time again with our Fund Drives – loyal listeners tuning in and showing up to make sure WAMC stays on air. We hear it whenever the words "Support for WAMC comes from," followed by our dedicated underwriters. We tune in every time we hear a newscast from the WAMC news team.

In the words of Alan, "we're all in this together." Let's continue to support one another through these challenging times. We kindly ask that now more than ever you please consider supporting the businesses that support WAMC. For a full listing of all our underwriters please visit our Underwriting Directory.
