Updates from Wyoming Public Media General Manager, Christina Kuzmych

As always, stay well, and thank you!  Again, thank you for making it possible for WPM to keep broadcasting in these unusual times.  We always marvel at the power of public media to reach people at times when communication is challenged and spirits shaken. Having you at our side is both critical and comforting.  We can’t say this enough.

The Modern West

Bob Becks’ story was part of the National Public Radio’s “Explore Revenue And Budget Situations Across The Modern West” series. You can listen to the podcast here. Winner of a 2020 Edward R. Murrow Award for Best Documentary, “Country” brings listeners into the past and present of a particular story that illuminates the larger story of America.

New Agreement Hopes To Boost Uranium Production, Worrying Environmentalists

Cooper McKim’s spot aired on July 26, 2020. The Modern West podcast, winner of a 2020 Edward R. Murrow Award for Best Documentary, “Country” brings listeners into the past and present of a particular story that illuminates the larger story of America.

Wyoming 2020 Congressional Debates and Election Coverage

Wyoming came together for a special event.  Our deep thanks to all Wyomingites who participated in the reading of the Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media's engineers consider summer time to be tower season. Paul, Wade and Alec scale mountains to upgrade and repair over 25 sites around the state to keep the Wyoming Public Radio, Classical Wyoming, Jazz Wyoming and Mountain West National Public Radio networks on the air! More election coverage.

Wildlife Enjoying Wyoming Public Radio Airwaves & View From the Tower

Megan Feighery, Wyoming’s reporter with the Mountain West News Bureau, a public radio collaboration across the West. Part-time news reporter and cultural affairs producer, Megan Feighery, is leaving for South Dakota, where she will continue serving WPM with a focus on the arts and culture. She brings years of experience to Public Radio, developing stories that highlight the vibrant cultural landscape.

Public Broadcasting Corporation’s “Declaration of Independence” in 4K at 30 states nationwide online celebrations. Throwing broadsides to our nation’s liberties is less frequent but still needed.

South Dakota, you are likely to hear past and present WPM voices, including Caroline Ballard in Salt Lake City, WPM’s Award-winning Alliance Correspondent. For people who feel wronged.

Megan in South Dakota. It will bring a touch of home to your travels!

Naina Rao in Wyoming, and now Megan in South Dakota. It will bring a touch of home to your travels!

Focus on Small Tones That Are Reeling From the Loss of Tourism This Summer

The focus of this week’s Small Town Series includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen, Wyoming’s reporter with the Mountain West News Bureau, a public radio collaboration across the West.

The Modern West tells the untold stories of the American West, bringing people together around the region’s landscape and natural resources. This summer series profiles small towns that are reeling from the loss of tourism this summer.

Part-time news reporter and cultural affairs producer, Megan Feighery, is leaving for South Dakota, where she will continue serving WPM with a focus on the arts and culture. She brings years of experience to Public Radio, developing stories that highlight the vibrant cultural landscape.

It will bring a touch of home to your travels!

Focus on Small Tones That Are Reeling From the Loss of Tourism This Summer

The focus of this week’s Small Town Series includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen, Wyoming’s reporter with the Mountain West News Bureau, a public radio collaboration across the West.

The Modern West tells the untold stories of the American West, bringing people together around the region’s landscape and natural resources. This summer series profiles small towns that are reeling from the loss of tourism this summer.

Part-time news reporter and cultural affairs producer, Megan Feighery, is leaving for South Dakota, where she will continue serving WPM with a focus on the arts and culture. She brings years of experience to Public Radio, developing stories that highlight the vibrant cultural landscape.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.

Part-time news reporter and cultural affairs producer, Megan Feighery, is leaving for South Dakota, where she will continue serving WPM with a focus on the arts and culture. She brings years of experience to Public Radio, developing stories that highlight the vibrant cultural landscape.

Wyoming Public Media’s engineers consider summer time to be tower season. Paul, Wade and Alec scale mountains to upgrade and repair over 25 sites around the state to keep the Wyoming Public Radio, Classical Wyoming, Jazz Wyoming and Mountain West National Public Radio networks on the air! More election coverage.

Wildlife Enjoying Wyoming Public Radio Airwaves & View From the Tower

Megan Feighery, Wyoming’s reporter with the Mountain West News Bureau, a public radio collaboration across the West. Part-time news reporter and cultural affairs producer, Megan Feighery, is leaving for South Dakota, where she will continue serving WPM with a focus on the arts and culture. She brings years of experience to Public Radio, developing stories that highlight the vibrant cultural landscape.

Wyoming Public Media’s engineers consider summer time to be tower season. Paul, Wade and Alec scale mountains to upgrade and repair over 25 sites around the state to keep the Wyoming Public Radio, Classical Wyoming, Jazz Wyoming and Mountain West National Public Radio networks on the air! More election coverage.

Wildlife Enjoying Wyoming Public Radio Airwaves & View From the Tower

Megan Feighery, Wyoming’s reporter with the Mountain West News Bureau, a public radio collaboration across the West. Part-time news reporter and cultural affairs producer, Megan Feighery, is leaving for South Dakota, where she will continue serving WPM with a focus on the arts and culture. She brings years of experience to Public Radio, developing stories that highlight the vibrant cultural landscape.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.

The Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.

The Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.

The Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.

The Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.

The Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.

The Declaration of Independence during our 4th of July statewide online celebration.  This moving tribute to our nation’s history can be found here.  It includes Nate Hegyi and Maggie Mullen.  Keep an ear out for it.

Wyoming Public Media is a service of the University of Wyoming.  You can also post your question early in the discussion along with full broadcast.

Subscribe to our email list.  If you have received this email as a forward, please let us know if you would like to receive our future emails.